Specializing in coordinating care for patients and their family members

At Home Support is a unique program developed to ease many of the burdens confronted by those living with chronic illness. In collaboration with your doctor, we provide a team of experienced and skilled professionals to assist you in living as comfortably and as independently as possible.

We offer the support that matters the most to you, including:

- Education about your specific condition
- Assistance in maintaining independence
- Companionship and counseling
- Medication and symptom management
- Personal care and support with activities of daily living

The team includes:

- A doctor who specializes in recommending medications or treatments to help relieve pain and symptoms caused by illness
- A nurse with training in advanced chronic illness management and home-based care
- A patient-family advocate, who is able to coordinate community resources and can address interpersonal issues and lifestyle changes for those who are chronically ill

- Additional members, including a patient/family assistant as well as volunteers who are trained in supporting patients and families according to their individual needs

Services provided:

- Home visits and individualized treatment plans by a nurse and counselor, with the aid of patient/family assistants and volunteers
- A team of caring professionals who work closely with your doctor to manage symptoms and pain, and to keep you in the environment in which you are most comfortable
- Assistance that will enable you to maintain your independence and experience life's pleasures
- Guidance to help you make the treatment decisions that are right for you and your family
- A patient-family advocate to identify community services and resources
- Assistance with personal care and household tasks
 - Professional resources for caregivers, to help you help your loved one cope with life changes
 - 24-hour availability to answer your questions
