Subject: That time of year again.....would your practice like laminated patient education materials?

It is that time of year again when due to various illnesses, patients might be expecting that an antibiotic is the best course.

As NPO has done in previous years, NPO will provide laminated copies of the Choosing Wisely documents below for use in your practice to help educate patients (and parents) as to why antibiotics may not be the best course of action. Many NPO providers have shared that these materials are useful and help ensure antibiotic use is necessary and appropriate.

Please review the links below and if there are any of these patient education materials you would like to have laminated for use in your practice, please just let us know which ones and how many of each.
